Industry Considering Pearl River Sites

ries are already considering sites along the Pearl River for future expansion and production facilities. Senator John C. Stennis, United States Senator, expressed the recently at the Seventh Meeting of the Pearl River Valley Development Association in Jackson.

Speaking from Hancock were H. H. Shattuck, Coast Electric Power Co., former president of Hancock County Port and Commissioner John who also made a presentation to the senator on behalf of the association, local directors are, Pearl River Valley Development Association, Jack, director, Gulf Regional Planning Commission; Hill, director, Hancock Port and Harbor Commission; H. Hardin Shattuck, Pearl River Basin Development District, Haas and S. Shaw.

He presented the plan with a full size color sketch at his recent and to the airport named in Hancock County, Field, port commissioner told for the gift was being the county in appreciation many favors bestowed by their Washington presentation. Among them he cited the senators in the obtaining Mississippi Test Facility, rapid organization of aid following Hurricane and his new determination to procure new programs

Stennis made his industrial location remarks following his endorsement in principle of the Pearl River Basin Comprehensive Development Plan.

When completed, he said, this development will permit barge traffic navigation as far north as Jackson, Miss., and possibly even further.

He said he highly commends all members of the boards of supervisors of the counties concerned during these "lean years" who have supported the Pearl River Development District. These men have shown faith and confidence in their willingness to project matters far beyond their tenure, placing program first and foremost, he continued.

The plan represents a definite milestone, a definite breakthrough that 50 years from now will be recognized as the turning point in the development of the Pearl River, the senator concluded.

The Comprehensive Development Plan calls for three "Early Action" projects.

One deals with the construction of up-state reservoirs, one with Soil Conservation and watershed, and the last the de-snagging and development of the Pearl River from the NASA canal for 302 miles to Edinburg to provide for a first class recreational boatway. Also involved will be the construction of 82 recreational areas with boat launching ramps.

Caruso Asks

For Water Line

Luke Caruso, part owner of The Driftwood Motel, appealed to the Mayor and City Commissioners on Monday and asked that a water line of four inches in diameter be placed within 1000 feet of his property in order that he could obtain fire insurance protection.

Caruso said the firm formerly insuring his business had left the State of Mississippi and that he had tried to get insurance protection but was turned down by every agency on the coast because of lack of a water line. Commissioner Frisbie said: "At the present time there is not much we can do. We have the same problem in the entire annexed area."

Frisbie said it takes at least four inch line to fit a fire hydrant. Caruso replied: "I may have to institute a suit against the City of Bay St. Louis for non-protection." Caruso said other businesses besides his were possibly involved and mentioned Breathes, a small motel and a local gas Service Station and added: "I am the first one affected. Others may be when their present policies expire, but there again I don't know."

Commissioner Andre Arceneaux said: "Give us an opportunity to study and see what is involved and what we can do."

Caruso said he had been without insurance since the third day of November, had his money invested in a business and a fire would financially wreck him.

Action Denounced

By Mayor Carver

Acting without authority, Chief of Police Robert Goodsell was accused by Mayor Warren J. Carver of hiring one Bill Carbonette to serve on the police force and demoting Larry Ladner to a part-time or stand-by basis. Carver said: "I take exception to this and Goodsell has exceeded his authority." Commissioners Andre Arceneaux and William Frisbie denied hiring Carbonette during the mayor's absence from the city on Monday, November 2, when he attended a State Highway Meeting in Jackson. However Arceneaux said he was in favor of the change and had so expressed himself to Goodsell. Mayor Carver said: "As far as I am concerned Bill Carbonette is not on the police force. Bob Goodsell apparently did this on his own and this is one of the reasons I don't want him as Chief of Police."

Larry Ladner appeared before the commissioners and said that he had been on the police force for the past seven months, had assumed that his job was secure and had made commitments based on his salary. Ladner pointed out that he had been attentive to his duties and had not missed any time from his work. He said he was given no reason for his demotion. Carbonette, reported to be a good fireman and experienced police officer, allegedly left his former job with the City and went to the West Coast.

Carver did not contest Carbonette's qualifications but stated he felt it unfair to relieve a regular employee from his job to place another man and extra men were not needed on the police force.

Arceneaux said: "I will be honest, I want Carbonette on the force." Arceneaux added he thought Goodsell would come to the Mayor before taking any action. Mayor Carver said: "I make a motion the personnel of our police force be retained and any person being hired subsequent to October 30 be declared null and void. I oppose the hiring of Billy Carbonette and the firing of Larry Ladner." There was no second to the motion.

Attorney for the City, Gerald Cox said he would look into an interpretation of the City Ordinances and the Code, however, all members of the City Commission are in agreement that Carbonette's hiring was unofficial. No record of his hiring appears on the minute books at the City Hall. A hearing is scheduled for next week at the regular meeting of the City Council. The public is welcome to attend these City Council meetings, Carver said.

During the Monday meeting of the Commissioners Commission, Frisbie asked that a reporter and others seated in the room leave in order that matters might be discussed privately between only Carver, Arceneaux and Frisbie.

Commissioner Objects To Salary

Commissioner Andre Arceneaux on Monday at a meeting of the City Commissioners voiced objections to the salary being received by Mrs. Adree Shortle who has been employed as Director, Cleanup and Beautification Campaign for the City of Bay St. Louis. Mrs. Shortle started working in the City Hall on October 27 and her job description involves a title search and field inspection for vacant lots in need of cleaning or clearing. Mrs. Shortle says she has written approximately 35 letters advising property owners of an ordinance whereby the city may enforce clearing of these lots and charge the costs against the tax statement.

Mayor Carver in pointing out Mrs. Shortle's qualifications said she has a degree in journalism, composes her own letters and that her salary was established by Robert Keightley, director of the Interim Assistance Program in Bay St. Louis who based the salary on a set wage scale established by the Mississippi Employment Service.

Arceneaux said he had no objections to the qualifications of Mrs. Shortle, but felt that her salary should be reduced and cited that workers in his office were earning considerably less. "If we are to make progress with the Cleanup and Beautification program I must have help," Carver asserted.

"I made a motion we dispense with her (Mrs. Shortle) service at her present salary or retain her at $50 a week," Arceneaux said. The motion did not carry, however, Commissioner Frisbie suggested a study with a view to re-alignment of salaries. Monday has been set for the date of salary discussion. Mayor Carver suggested the Mississippi Employment Service might be brought into the discussion. "I have already made inquiries and checks on some salaries," Arceneaux added.

Chamber Dinner Planned

J. Ruble Griffin, president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, announces the annual banquet for members, their wives and guests to be given at the Bay Waveland Yacht Club on Tuesday evening, November 17, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the meeting is the election of Board of Director Members for the 1971-72 term.

Talmadge Rayborn, executive director of the chamber, asks those planning to attend to make reservations either by calling Mrs. Kiesler at 467-4252 or by writing the Chamber of Commerce.

Dinner will be served promptly at 8:00 p.m. Cost of the reservations are $5.00 per person.

Aldermen Elected

Unofficial results in a primary runoff for Alderman, Ward Two, Town of Waveland, show Albert Grass with 115 votes victorious over Walter Cravely with 77. The runoff was held Tuesday, November 10.

For Alderman Ward Four, incumbent Herman Yarborough was defeated by Duane Bourgeois. Unofficial returns showed a tie but the Mississippi Attorney General suggested that a recount be held. The final tally was Bourgeois, 166 votes and Yarborough 162 votes.

An imposing roster of dignitaries and high ranking public officials participated in the Honor Awards Ceremony presented Monday at Mississippi Test Facility. Group awards, certificate of appreciation awards, and plaques were given in recognition of outstanding contributions to the successful completion of the Saturn Apollo Static Firing Program and marked the closing of what was termed by Senator John Stennis (d-Miss.) as "Phase One" of the $350,000,000 facility.

Systems, Saturn S-11 Static Firing Crew, Rocket Engine Static Test Support Team, Saturn Apollo Test Support Team and Harrison County Community Action Agency, Inc.

Dr. Eberhard Roess, director of the Marshall Space Flight Center, served as Master of Ceremonies and explained the location of the M.T.F. was chosen because it was sparsely populated, it had water transportation routes necessary in moving massive equipment and because of its close proximity to Michoud. Social problems confronted in the construction of the facility involved the relocating of families once occupying villages of Galveston and Logtown. Accidents at MTF were said to be few and mostly of a minor nature and no deaths were attributed to occupational causes at the Facility. Hurricane Camille was said to have been the greatest setback experienced at the Facility.

Others appearing on the program included Dale D. Myers, Associate Administrator, Office of Manned Space Flight NASA, Lee B. James, director, Program Management Marshall Space Flight Center, and Jackson M. Balch, Manager, Mississippi Test Facility who made closing remarks and expressed confidence that other Federal Agencies would be interested in the Facility.

A press conference with Senator Stennis, a luncheon and a tour of the facility concluded the "curtain call on the installation's historic installation of helping to put man on the moon."

But who were the dignitaries? Among them were Edward P. Todd, executive assistant to the deputy director for research, National Science Foundation; Dr. A. P. C. director division, Environmental Sciences, National Science Foundation; Dr. Robert M. White, acting administrator, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration; Dr. Richard Halgren, assistant administrator for Environmental System, Environmental Science Administration; Gilbert Jaffee, director, National Oceanographic Instrumentation Center; Harvey Bullock, associate director, National Marine Fisheries Service; Dr. W. R. Peckora, director, Geological Survey, Department of the Interior; Dr. John E. Naugle, associate administrator for space science and application NASA, Dr. Robert R. Gilchrist, director, Manned Space Craft Center of Houston, Dr. Werner von Braun, deputy associate administrator NASA, Dr. Curt Debus, director, Kennedy Space Flight Center; Rear Admiral C. A. Richmond, chief of research and development U.S. Coast Guard and many, many more!

It seems when Senator Stennis arranges a "mass meeting" he gets massive response. Predictions were that "during the 1970's advances would be made space-wise that would outstrip happenings during the '60's. This is an interim point," Stennis declared "not a terminal".

Approximately ninety percent of the goal has been reached for the 1970 Hancock County United Fund campaign, according to Ed Hall, campaign chairman of the drive. Hall said the goal set at $26,000 has received $24,818.43 in pledges and as of November 10 the sum of $15,549.40 had been collected. The drive has been extended through the month of November, according to James R. Shadoin who serves as President of the organization.

Shadoin said pay roll deductions had been authorized by some companies and many business firms and contractors had not yet been contacted. "Through the generosity and cooperation of the people" Hall said "many families have helped in the past and the 12 charitable and youth agencies supported by the fund depend on free-will donations to function."

An appeal is being made by Mrs. C. R. Beyer, secretary of the organization, for volunteer workers who will give of their time in contacting un-tapped sources of potential revenue in order that the United Fund Drive may reach its goal.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

I too like animals and think it is commendable for the young lady to assume the responsibility of caring for the dogs and those that are willing to help. I want to call attention to our servicemen that are in prison in foreign lands. They are being treated worse than the dogs were in Bay St. Louis pound, and yet trade with Russia is helping to send weapons to North Vietnam. Why not write the President that we want trade with the enemy to be stopped immediately and demand our boys be released before we pull out completely. I wrote a letter like this one two weeks ago, but it was not published. Now the Governor has proclaimed November 15 a day of prayer for our prisoners of war, so please publish this one.

Mrs. A. Grace Pope

Funeral services for Wanda Kay Register, 60-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Register, were held Saturday, Nov. 7, at the Waveland Hospital from injuries received in an accident of school.

Other than her parents, she is survived by two brothers, Donald and Billy, and a sister, Sheila Register, her maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Spicer, Hattiesburg, La., and her paternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Register of Waveland.

Mrs. Register was a member of Our Lady of Good Hope Catholic Church, Waveland.

Funeral services for Mrs. Leoma G. Coster were held Friday from Remmann-Fahy Funeral Home followed by a Requiem Mass at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church with Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, officiating.

Interment was in De Lisle Cemetery with Elmer Partor, Earl Sillier, Robert Ginn, John Conin, William Nichols and William Gavagan serving as pallbearers.

Mrs. Coster was a member of Our Lady of Good Hope Catholic Church, Waveland.

Survivors include a son, Lee Coster, Bay St. Louis; grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Coster, De Lisle; four grandchildren, Mrs. Donald Coster, Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Billy Nichols, New Orleans; Robert Ginn and John Ginn, Bay St. Louis, and eight great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Jeanne Taillie

Mrs. Jeanne Taillie, 31, wife of the late Jean Taillie, died Sunday, November 8, in New Orleans.

A native of France, Mrs. Taillie had been residing in New Orleans since 1921.

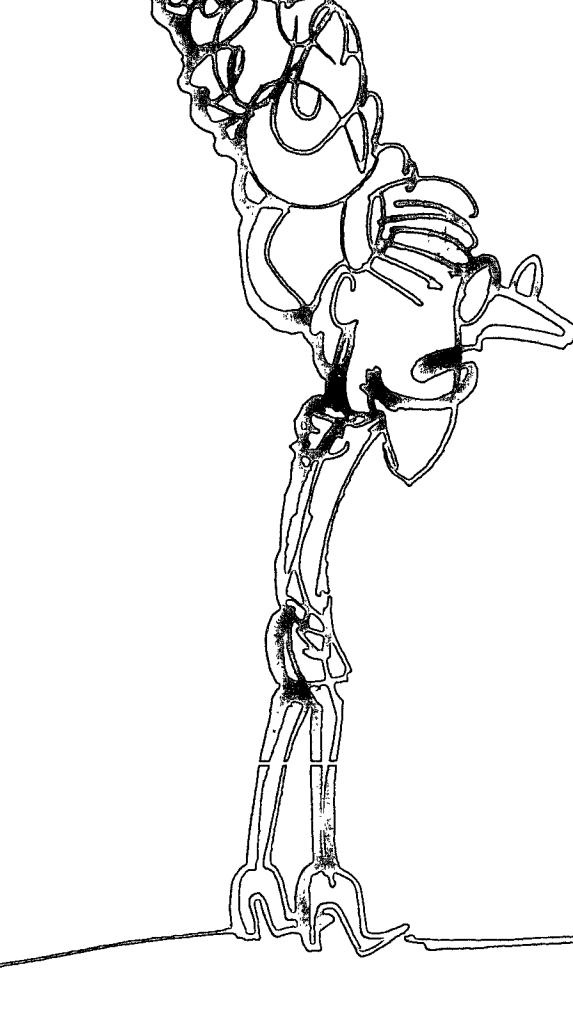

Survivors include five sons, Roland Taillie, Bay St. Louis, Robert Taillie, Los Angeles, Calif.; Ram and Henry Taillie, New Orleans; and Linda Taillie, Little Rock, Arkansas; 24 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren and 1 great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Tuesday from Remmann-Fahy Funeral Home followed by a Requiem Mass in St. John's Church with Rev. Edward McDonald, pastor officiating.

Interment was at Lakewood Cemetery with Lambert Burdages, Howard Yarborough, Wilford Burdages, John Burdages, Roy Burdages and Eddie Hockeck serving as pallbearers.

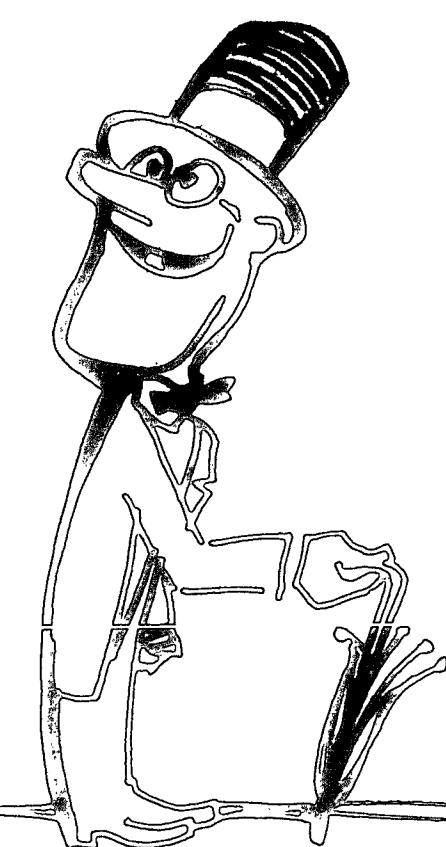

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. with a Requiem Mass at Landrum Funeral Home. Interment was in Lakeview Mausoleum.

President Nixon Is Well Pleased

Special Article by James J. Kilpatrick

President Nixon hasn't given up on the appointment of a Southern strict constructionist to the Supreme Court. He is especially pleased with what he sees as an ideological gain in the next Senate. And he expects a marked upturn in the economy next year, to be followed by a very good year in 1972.

Two weeks ago, during a campaign trip in the South, Vice President Agnew had indicated the administration's continuing desire to see a Southern conservative on the Court. Mr. Nixon expressly—even glowingly—confirmed the prospect in talking with a small group of Washington newsmen on Thursday afternoon. His remarks were embargoed for release this week.

The question of a Supreme Court nomination arose in the context of Tuesday's senatorial elections. Plainly, the President was delighted by the changing picture in the Senate. He was satisfied with the outcome in the House, where he privately had predicted a loss of 12 to 15 seats for the Republicans. He candidly acknowledged his disappointment in gubernatorial returns, though he minimized the effect that Democratic statehouse triumphs would have on the 1972 presidential election.

It was the Senate prospect that had Mr. Nixon smiling on Thursday. He was not smiling about the Senate last April. On the day after the Senate rejected his nomination of C. Harrold Carswell, the President grimly summoned reporters to express his reluctant conclusion that "this Senate, as it is presently constituted, will not approve a man from the South who shares my views of strict construction of the Constitution."

The vote against Carswell was 51-45, with such Senators as Tydings (Md.), Goodell (N.Y.), Young (Ohio), Gore (Tenn.) and Yarborough (Texas) voting to reject the nomination. None of the five will be back in the Senate during the 92nd Congress. And even though such administration supporters as Smith (Ill.) and Murphy (Calif.) went down to defeat on Thursday, the arithmetic hypothetically suggests a net gain of three for the White House on such an issue. In the Carswell vote, a switch of three would have produced a 48-48 tie, which the Vice President could have broken.

Mr. Nixon did not confide to the Carswell rejection specifically. He was asked, however, in the context of the new Senate, if he would try again with a Southern nominee.

He responded with an instant oh, yes, as if he were surprised that there might be any doubt in the matter. He emphasized that no vacancy now exists on the high court, but when a vacancy appears, he said, he would submit the name of a distinguished Southerner who would be regarded as a strict constructionist of the Constitution. His nominee would have a public record of opposition to the permissiveness that sometimes characterized opinions of the Warren Court, especially in areas of criminal law.

The President thought such a nominee would be approved by the incoming Senate. He had in mind a couple of Southerners who would be hard to disapprove. It should not be inferred, the President subsequently remarked, that he was thinking solely of sitting judges; he might choose a distinguished Southern lawyer or law professor but the criteria would be as he had said—a public record of a legal philosophy founded in strict construction.

Most of the hour-long press conference was devoted to the Tuesday elections.

Mr. Nixon began by remarking that he had reached the decision to intervene personally in the campaign immediately after his return from Europe in early October. He had asked in advance for all the reliable polls he could get on Senate races, chiefly those of Opinion Research in Princeton, and he had asked for figures with the kind of.

As of October 8, he said, the prospect was extremely bleak. The polls indicated that if the election were held then, the Republicans would lose at least two seats in the Senate. They were behind in every key race; Probst was behind in Vermont; Scall was behind in Maryland; Cramer was lagging in Florida; Buckley was seven points behind in New York; Smith and Murphy were hopelessly behind.

The President felt that if the situation were left to drift, it could be highly detrimental to his leadership in the next Senate. On defense and foreign policy issues, every vote was vital. So he had to get into the campaign—even though he was aware that history indicated that presidential intervention in mid-term elections is of doubtful effectiveness. It was a risk—but the risk had to be taken. He therefore went out for five work days and three Saturdays, and it was one of the marvels of modern campaigning that he was able to hit 20 States in this time.

Foreign policy, he emphasized repeatedly, was his main purpose. He hoped to reverse the prospective loss of two seats in the Senate, and to achieve a gain of one or two instead. He hoped House losses could be held to half the historic pattern of this century. While he surely did not want to claim credit for the results, it seldom is possible to point to any single factor and call it decisive—he thought perhaps it had materially helped Beall in Maryland and Brock in Tennessee. But they might have won anyway.

Turning to the gubernatorial races, the President remarked that there is a vast difference in voter attitudes toward State elections as distinguished from congressional or presidential elections. At the State level, local issues count heavily.

Thus, in Nebraska, he knew that Governor Norbert Tiemann was in deep trouble by reason of the tax program he had sponsored. Tiemann is an excellent man, the President said, and deserved better, but nothing could save him. In Ohio, the economic drag was severe, so severe that Robert Taft's survival in the senatorial contest was a remarkable achievement. This same economic drag strongly affected elections in California, where Governor Reagan's victory margin was below expectations and both houses of the State Legislature changed hands.

The economic drag, as the President termed it, was a heavy political handicap throughout the West and upper Midwest. The issue was played brilliantly by the Democratic opposition. He gave them full credit for it. If he were Larry O'Brien (Democratic national chairman), he'd be crowing about the Statehouses too. But the result of the Democrats' success was to claim at least ten governorships. He had expected the GOP to lose no more than eight.

Mr. Nixon felt the importance of these Democratic gains, in terms of the 1972 presidential contest, was de minimis. He recalled that in 1960, in his own race against John F. Kennedy, he had carried 26 States, and that only 11 of them had Republican Governors. The fact is, he said, that Governors no longer have the impact they once had on presidential campaigns.

Turning to the house, the President thought his party had done remarkably well, holding mid-term losses to eight or nine seats. On any key questions of defense and foreign policy, he believed he would have a good House to work with.

He responded with an instant oh, yes, as if he were surprised that there might be any doubt in the matter. He emphasized that no vacancy now exists on the high court, but when a vacancy appears, he said, he would submit the name of a distinguished Southerner who would be regarded as a strict constructionist of the Constitution. His nominee would have a public record of opposition to the permissiveness that sometimes characterized opinions of the Warren Court, especially in areas of criminal law.

The President thought such a nominee would be approved by the incoming Senate. He had in mind a couple of Southerners who would be hard to disapprove. It should not be inferred, the President subsequently remarked, that he was thinking solely of sitting judges; he might choose a distinguished Southern lawyer or law professor but the criteria would be as he had said—a public record of a legal philosophy founded in strict construction.

Most of the hour-long press conference was devoted to the Tuesday elections.

Mr. Nixon began by remarking that he had reached the decision to intervene personally in the campaign immediately after his return from Europe in early October. He had asked in advance for all the reliable polls he could get on Senate races, chiefly those of Opinion Research in Princeton, and he had asked for figures with the kind of.

As of October 8, he said, the prospect was extremely bleak. The polls indicated that if the election were held then, the Republicans would lose at least two seats in the Senate. They were behind in every key race; Probst was behind in Vermont; Scall was behind in Maryland; Cramer was lagging in Florida; Buckley was seven points behind in New York; Smith and Murphy were hopelessly behind.

The President felt that if the situation were left to drift, it could be highly detrimental to his leadership in the next Senate. On defense and foreign policy issues, every vote was vital. So he had to get into the campaign—even though he was aware that history indicated that presidential intervention in mid-term elections is of doubtful effectiveness. It was a risk—but the risk had to be taken. He therefore went out for five work days and three Saturdays, against an inevitable opponent (Albert Humphrey), and he has a fine future.

Reporters asked only two questions unrelated to last week's elections. On these, Mr. Nixon indicated he would hold up on a textile wage bill in the hope that renewed negotiations with the Japanese would produce a satisfactory voluntary agreement. And he said, he had not time to go carefully over proposed changes in this package, but he wanted to know how much they would cost and what their impact would be on the budget for fiscal '72.

The President dangled the returns showed great Republican weakness in the South. After all, a Senate seat had been gained in Tennessee, and Republican Kenneth Robinson had won a House seat, over a liberal Democratic opponent, in Virginia's Seventh District. As for the disappointing loss in Florida's Senate race, it reflected an old theorem of professional politics. No minority party can afford the factionalism that follows inevitably from a primary contest.

Looking to the future—specifically to 1972—Mr. Nixon was rosily optimistic. Social issues still would count, of course, but the big issues would be (1) peace and (2) the pocketbook.

On the first, he said, we will look very strong.

On the second—this whole difficult business of the economic drag—we have taken our lumps now. The coming year, 1971, will be a good year, and 1972 will be a very strong year. The worst of the poison of inflation has been almost extracted from the economy. Two years hence, the Democrats would not be able to wring this issue so effectively.

Neither would law and order, he believed, and hoped, be so tense an issue in the future. It would depend upon what happens—on the level of crime generally, and upon specific incidents of outrageous violence. He confidently expects to see crime rates decline, and both parties are as one in deplored violence.

Thinking of violence, he felt that the effective defusing of the war in Vietnam, coupled with decreasing draft call had taken most of the steam out of youthful demonstrators. The demonstrations had recently observed had very little heart in them. This changing picture would have its political advantages in Congress, where some members had played to the galleries on the peace issue. Well, the galleries were gone now.

In response to questions, Mr. Nixon stoutly defended the significant contribution of Vice President Agnew. His indefatigable campaigning had been helpful and effective. True, though, he had hit hard, but here he had been hit hard, too. The President ruefully recalled that he himself had been through the same rough treatment in 1954 and 1958. But someone, he said, has to raise money, stir up the faithful, and bring excitement to a campaign. Agnew had carried a big load, with very great ability.

The President fended off all questions dealing with "dump Agnew" speculation. He himself had known such speculation too. But it would be premature and presumptuous for him to talk in 1970 of a running mate for 1972.

Returning to the campaign, Mr. Nixon said he supposed the press wondered why he had "risked his prestige," as they said, in such hopeless causes as the senatorial contests of Missouri and Minnesota. Where a party is blessed with truly outstanding candidates, he said, a President just has to help. John Danforth lost narrowly; he will be a Senator some day. MacGregor made a fine effort.

He was especially gratified by conservative James L. Buckley's upset victory. It was just great; he was tickled pink. He himself had dispatched Vice President Agnew to New York, and even though he knew Buckley would oppose him on welfare reform, he couldn't be more pleased at the outcome. And now that the race was over, he felt

Mayor Carver Asks*Cleanup Continuation

An ambitious appeal aimed at every merchant and business house in Bay St. Louis has been instigated by Mayor Warren Carver as a follow up to the recent county-wide cleanup campaign.

In a letter addressed to businessmen in the Bay community, Mayor Carver asks that each continue the cleanup and property improvement efforts started in October.

"The general appearance of the community is greatly improved," the letter states. "The beautification idea seems to have taken root and it is gratifying to observe that many of our citizens are making a real effort to cooperate in every way."

The letter continues, "As a businessman you have a most important interest in the welfare of the town. The price of ugliness can certainly be reckoned in dollars. A dirty, unattractive place of business could mean loss in business to you."

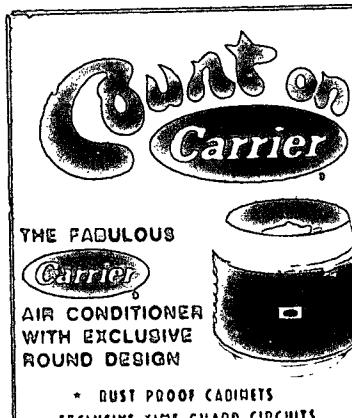

At the conclusion of his letter, Mayor Carver asks the merchants to "please join us... in a declaration of war against uncleanliness, ugliness and unattractive surroundings. By doing so you will become part of a national effort... even in a small way to 'Keep America Beautiful.'

Volunteers Prepare Letters

The colorful 1970 Christmas Seals and accompanying letter describing the Hancock County TB-RD Association's year-round activities are being prepared this week by volunteers.

Christmas Seal letters will be mailed in Hancock County and throughout Mississippi on November 16, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. Elda Duke, Chairman.

"This year's Christmas Seals are entirely different from previous Seals. In the past, the Christmas Seals design incorporated one Christmas scene on two or four Seals, and this theme was duplicated throughout the sheet of Seals. For the first time in the association's 64 years, each sheet of Seals contains 100 different Christmas Seals".

We urge all residents to watch their mail carefully and take a moment to examine the colorful 1970 Christmas Seals when they are received in the homes early during the third week of November.

The Annual Christmas Seal Campaign requesting contributions is handled entirely by volunteer workers. Volunteers spending with this year's campaign include the Hancock County Home Demonstration Council.

The association's organized activities in medical education and research and public education programs in its field of respiratory disease are most important, and we urge all citizens to respond promptly to their Christmas Seal Letter.

BAUDOU WINNERS
Winners of games played Monday night at Gulf View Hotel by Bay-Waveland Bridge Club members were Mrs. Norman Mazzaroli and Mrs. Stephen Hastings, first; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Pierce, second, and Mrs. Mildred Means and Miss Amelia Scafidi, third.

to 3,000 trees per landowner, and the requests must be made on or before November 20.

Requests for the trees should be addressed to St. Regis Paper Company, P. O. Box 356, Picayune, Miss., 39466. The telephone number is 798-4438. Landowners in the counties of Lamar, Forrest, Pearl River, Stone, Greene, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson are eligible to request the trees from St. Regis.

Since St. Regis lands also suffered heavily from the disaster, and since it operates one of the largest industrial tree nurseries in the South, "We thought we should share with our neighbors in the task of regeneration of the destroyed forests," said R. T. Branton, forest area manager.

The trees were trucked here from the company's nursery near the Suwannee River in North Florida, and subsequent shipments will be made to fulfill the company's pledge.

Since the requests in hand are near that figure, any additional requests will be limited to 3,000 trees per landowner, and the requests must be made on or before November 20.

Landowners who waited while other ballots were being printed, in an article appearing in last week's Echo the error was reported as that of the clerk.

Error occurring in regulating the number of ballots needed in the recent election was that of the Election Commission, according to a statement made by Henry Otis who explained the slight inconvenience caused a few voters who waited while other ballots were being printed, in an article appearing in last week's Echo the error was reported as that of the clerk.

Culptor's Model Explains Work Of Bay St. Louis Artist

LIVED interest in the work of Richmond Barthé, a Bay St. born and internationally sculptor, has made me more informative. By popular request the account submitted by Barthé is designed to answer questions about the artist's works.

Instead, let me tell you about the sculptor

Richmond Barthé was

of Marie Barthé-Frank-

denied from early childhood to be an artist. He would and draw anything he had with any free time he had. His talent was revealed by Miss Louise Crav-

and Josie Welch. An entry church fair, a Priest in New

"This has been the most wonderful trip I have ever taken, and I have taken some wonderful ones in my life . . . much has happened since I wrote the last line. This includes many interviews, appearing on T.V. (in New Orleans) and being given the key to the City of Bay St. Louis. And who do you think started all of this? Your Mother! Her idea 'snowballed', I can't write all that has happened. I shall have to take a week off to tell you about it. Your Mother, Miss Louise, Miss Nina and I were photographed with your head for Television -- Sunday's Time Picayune Rotogravure will carry pictures and next week there will be a reception in New Orleans.

And so, Dr. Richmond Barthe, the Aquarian, who has had several doctorates bestowed upon him, a negro born in Bay St. Louis who has been recognized as a great sculptor the world over did not write of his achievements or the fact that he has a great talent, he found his pleasure in giving something of himself to us in the hope that he might thank us for the happy memories he has of his home town. Among his personal treasures which he carries with him lies his favorite THE KEY TO THE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS.

Hopkins will be married November 21 in the First Baptist Church.

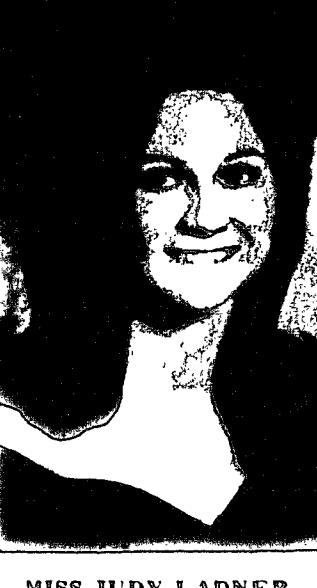

A blue and white color scheme was used in the decorations.

The refreshment table, overlaid with a lace cloth over pale blue, was centered with a crystal bowl of lilies of the valley centered with a bride and groom flanked by crystal candelabra holding blue tapers.

Miss Swords who chose a blue velvet suit for the occasion, was presented a corsage fashioned of miniature wedding symbols. Her mother, Mrs. O. O. Swords was given a blue and white corsage.

Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Roberts Magee and Miss Edna Moran were given the honors.

In the Deep South the coming of Fall Weather is the harbinger bringing to the house wife news of new crop molasses, new crop pecans, an abundance of fresh eggs at a right price! Many good products to use in the preparation of holiday feast days! There is comfort and cheer in the smell of spices baking in the kitchen and it is my pleasure to bring to you a 100 year old recipe for a molasses cake which has been personally tested. The cake has excellent keeping qualities, is moist and slices well. Once cut, there is an old trick you may wish to employ to keep it moist and fresh. Before wrapping the un-used portion of the cake tightly in foil, add a half of an apple. Moisture from the apple is absorbed by the cake and keeps it in perfect condition.

Grandma's Lasses Cake
1/2 pound butter
1 cup sugar
6 egg yolks beaten
1 cup molasses
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cloves
4 cups flour
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon soda
6 egg whites, beaten

Method: Cream butter and sugar until very smooth, light and fluffy. Add beaten egg yolks, molasses and spices and beat well. Add flour alternately with sour cream to which soda has been dissolved. Fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in a well-greased 10-inch tube pan at 300 degrees F. for 1 1/2 hours or until cake tests done.

Note: A rule for baking must be applied. Never fill your tube pan more than 2/3 full of batter, since dough will rise. Should you have an overage after filling the pan to the 2/3 mark, use the remaining dough as cupcakes, or bake in a small loaf pan.

Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 to 27 minutes. Cool 5 minutes, remove from pan and cut into squares. Yield 32 squares.

MEMBERS OF THE French Club at Bay Senior High School recently visited New Orleans. While there, they visited St. Louis Cathedral, the Vieux Carré, Jackson Square and enjoyed coffee and doughnuts at Cafe du Monde. Chaperones accompanying the group were Mr. Ronald Thomas, Mrs. Emily de Montuzin, Mrs. Ann Howe and Mrs. Mary Lee Lagarde.

Also recommended as a holiday special treat is

Molasses Pie
1 1/2 cups molasses
3 eggs beaten
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 unbaked 9 inch pie shell
1 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Method: Add molasses to beaten eggs and stir well. Add nutmeg, cinnamon, salt and melted butter or margarine and mix well. Combine brown sugar and cornstarch and add to molasses mixture. Pour into unbaked pie shell and sprinkle top with chopped pecans. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake an additional 30 minutes.

For a coffee hour treat Molasses Date Nut Bars are delightful. The recipe comes from Wanda White of Dallas, Texas.

Molasses Date-nut Bars
1 1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup molasses
2 cups all purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
1 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/2 cup milk
1 cup chopped dates

Method: Cream together shortening and sugar. Add egg and beat well; add molasses and beat. Sift together flour, salt, soda and baking powder. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk to cream mixture. Add chopped nuts and dates. Line 2 greased 8 x 8 x 2 inch pans with greased waxed paper. Pour in batter.

Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 to 27 minutes. Cool 5 minutes, remove from pan and cut into squares. Yield 32 squares.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling-

City-County Library Writer

THE KILN: A LITTLE TOWN WITH A BIG PAST

One of the interesting little towns that figures large in the history of the Pearl River country is Kiln, a few miles north of Bay St. Louis. Originally it was called "the kiln" because somebody built in the earliest 1800's a dry two or three big holes by the bank of the Jourdan River and engaged in the slow process of making charcoal and tar from the wood that nearby settlers brought in. Nobody remembers exactly when the first settler built a home at Kiln, but Thomas Gonzales, who still lives there at an advanced age, says that his mother was born there in 1856 and that his ancestors came there from Barcelos, Spain, probably around 1800.

It was not until about 1880 that the kiln pits gave way to the first sawmill ever built in this territory, operated by a member of the Favre family. A few years later a second mill was put up by one Erastus Cuz. These two small mills operated until they were absorbed in 1914 by the Edward Hinns Lumber Company, which built what was to be the biggest mill in the United States and began turning out lumber on a mammoth scale. Production eventually reached about three million feet of lumber per day. This immense sawmill, with planing mill attached, employed upwards of three thousand hands, many of them the most skilled sawyers and engineers in the land. Adjacent to the mill were a large office building for twenty employees and a commissary building in which eight or nine clerks were employed.

Kiln was now a small and bustling town of considerable importance in the state's economy. To care for all these people and their needs more than sixty houses were built, and a large hospital staffed by five doctors. There was a drugstore and a restaurant, two churches and a large school, as well as a restaurant, a poolroom and many betting houses. Later, when "nickelodeons" came into vogue, a movie house, which doubled as a dance hall and skating rink, added to the town's activities.

The pay of the mill workers was adequate for the times. Common labor got three dollars per day. Sawyers and blacksmiths eight dollars, engineers fifteen dollars, and carpenters, the elite of the workforce, were paid twenty-five dollars per day.

Kiln's crowning glory in its heyday was the Jules Hotel, a large structure of thirty-two rooms, a big lobby and an immense dining room. Here were housed the dozens of business men and salesmen who came every week to the Jourdan River and engaged in the slow process of making charcoal and tar from the wood that nearby settlers brought in. Nobody remembers exactly when the first settler built a home at Kiln, but Thomas Gonzales, who still lives there at an advanced age, says that his mother was born there in 1856 and that his ancestors came there from Barcelos, Spain, probably around 1800.

Today The Kiln is a pleasant, pretty little ghost town, dreaming of its past. It has nice homes, a big general store and a post office. It also has beaucoup fresh air, a big school and lovely surroundings.

Club Will Hold Dog Obedience Clinic

The Mississippi Coast Kennel Club is bringing something "different" to the coast on November 16-22 for the benefit of dog owners and dog lovers who take pride in displaying and enjoying the good behavior of their canine friends. They are holding a five-day Obedience Training Instructors School, plus an additional day on Sunday, the 22nd, which will take the form of a seminar on Handling and Judging as seen in competition in the Obedience Classes at the Kennel Club Shows. The clinic will be held by Rosenthal Gym, St. Augustine Seminar, in Bay St. Louis.

These will be conducted by Bill and Margaret Pearall of Estesville, Virginia. They have had over 23 years of experience in the training field of the dog world, teaching, judging obedience classes and tracking tests, conducting problem-solving obedience training clinics and the past several years have seen the development of the Instructor Schools, "teaching the teacher". As an example, their visit here will be the tenth such school they have conducted during 1970, in addition to other assignments of clinics and judging.

Their travels have included assignments in all but eleven of the United States (including Hawaii), many areas of Canada, also Bermuda, Trinidad and Caracas, Venezuela, a return trip being made to the latter just last February. Instructors have attended the schools from Canada, Bermuda and Venezuela, as well as from most of the United States. Attending the Bay St. Louis school will be two residents of Mexico, as well as representatives from four states, in addition to Mississippi.

Perhaps the best description of the Pearall theory of training and teaching Dog Obedience is, in a nutshell, "Look at it from the dog's point of view and proceed humanely step by step".

Mr. Pearall authored a book on training, "Dog Obedience Training", publ. Charles Scribner's Sons, N.Y.C., twelve years ago and it has never dropped in the rate of sales. However, he has come up with many new and easier approaches in training since then and he and his wife are working together on another book which will include them. No further information is available yet as to date of publication and name of publisher but they hope to be able to release this in the near future. They also are looking forward to taking up residence in southeast Florida shortly after their engagement here.

Mrs. J. R. Burger, of Biloxi, may be contacted for any additional information.

Much Suspense In "Wait Until Dark"

By Caroline Kiefer

For those whose fare is suspense the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre presented one of the costliest of this type of vehicles last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. From the opening curtain until the final closing, the audience was held spellbound. Set in a basement apartment in Greenwich Village, the viewers immediately were put into the mood of the play by the excellent stage setting, and its musical score. Burle Barrett, Director, whose skill in this field was evidenced throughout proved him a worthy captain of his ship. His manner of handling his characters conveyed the feeling of reality to the audience. Through the entire performance the polish of the actors, the pace of the play, special effects, plus the knowledge of what he expected from his cast made the audience realize that Mr. Barrett had outdone himself in obtaining finesse to make this one of the great all time presentations of the Bay St. Louis, Little Theatre.

The entire technical staff working with Mr. Barrett contributed heavily in creating settings, sound and light effects that literally shone with perfection. In order of appearance the actors of this spine chilling drama appeared with Glenn Furr establishing the pace for the others to follow. Versatility and talent possessed by this young man were demonstrated. Little in his movements he maneuvered easily and with grace. Floyd Wiles portrayed the behavior of the villains with astuteness which created the feel that this man was not acting, but feeling his role completely, an art seldom seen in amateur.

Starting in the male lead, much credit goes to Terry Malone, Jr. Always to be depended upon as a good actor, Terry's performance of interpreting three distinct characters was a difficult assignment at best.

With only nine days prior to opening night, Terry stepped into this role, and we feel his performance was nothing short of phenomenal. Terry, despite his youth is one of the rare talents in our community who gives of himself without stint. His work with the children's plays, and his ability as an actor shines luminously in whatever roles he may be cast.

Karen Smith, possessor of as much diversified talent as any one human could be endowed with, did a fantastic portrayal of the blind young woman whose life is in constant jeopardy. As an actress Karen achieved the ultimate and proved her mettle. Her delivery, stage presence, and marvelous facial expression were kept under tight control for two and a half hours.

Tom Hartnett was at a disadvantage in this play. This personable young man carried the only straight role in the show. With little to work with, he nevertheless, projected, and kept his audience with him while on stage. Tom should be given more opportunity as he has ability for meatier roles, plus good looks, and an excellent singing voice. (Not heard in this show, except backstage during rehearsals).

A new child talent has been discovered, Kathy Cox, ten year old daughter of one of our eminent physicians, Dr. Charles Cox and his wife Evelyn, possesses star quality. In Kathy emerges another prodigy of the theatre. Kathy possesses the aplomb of a veteran trooper. Her handling of a rather noisy little girl throwing tantrums and intent on beleaguering a desperate blind woman. Then the transition to the helpful, understanding young person who saves the life of the lady in trouble. This role required a professional, Kathy was this.

Chuck Taylor and Dan Griffor appear only at the very end of the show for several minutes on stage. Not the best vantage areas to show their abilities. Both have proven their worth in the theatre prior to this play, and have given creditable performances. Their jobs were well done in this show, yet

MISS MAXINE ROBINSON

Wedding Plans Announced

A wedding reception honoring Miss Maxine Robinson and Frederick D. Smith will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday, November 28, at the First Missionary Baptist Church.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald A. Robinson of Bay St. Louis, graduated from Vicksburg C. Jones High School and received her B.S. degree in Elementary Education from Jackson State College. She received her M.S. degree from Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana.

She is presently employed by the Picayune Public School System.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Smith of Pontiac, Michigan. He received his Bachelor of Music degree and Master of Arts degrees in Counseling and Guidance from the University of Michigan.

He is presently employed at Northern High School, Pontiac, Michigan.

The marriage ceremony will be officiated by the Rev. Lawrence Collins, Pastor First Missionary Baptist Church.

Officers

Elected

Susan Benvenutti was elected president of the American Legion Junior Auxiliary at Monday night's meeting held in the home of Mrs. Russell Elliott.

Other officers named for the year were Becky Benvenutti, vice president; Claudette Green, secretary; Mary Green, treasurer; Nadine Johns, historian; Sherrill Elliott, sergeant-at-arms; and Patti Passasser and Lucinda Kidd, flag bearers.

Plans were made for a Christmas meeting and party Monday, December 7, from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Elliott.

All junior members are invited to attend.

While small were vital to the overall production.

In viewing this show, this reviewer felt that a group of people were working determinedly and harmoniously to give an audience the best in Little Theatre.

CISV Elects New Officers

The Gulf Coast Chapter of The Children's International Summer Villages, Inc., at their recent meeting, elected Mr. Edwin F. Cruden, Waveland President. Other officers elected included Mrs. John D. Provest, Gulfport, Vice-President; Mrs. W.B. Barnes, Long Beach, Secretary; Mr. Roman B. Neimark, Biloxi, Treasurer; Miss Betty Ruth Harris, Biloxi and Mrs. Steven R. Kohl, Pass Christian, as National Council Representatives.

The CISV was formed in 1951 by Dr. Doris Allen with the sole purpose of helping children of different nations, customs and languages to better understand each other's ideas. It was felt that this could be one step toward helping build bridges of understanding between peoples, rather than walls.

During the past five years, thousands of children have been sent from the Gulf Coast area to representatives of the CISV. We are very proud of the impression these children have given to the delegates from other nations from all parts of the world. Each year four of our children have spent one month learning about other peoples and sharing our customs and ideas with other children selected by their nations. We feel that this "good will" is our greatest export.

Mr. Cruden advises us that in about 10 days, invitations will be sent to the various schools in the area to nominate 2 children each as their nominees for selection as delegates, if your schools wish to participate in this worthwhile honor, ask your principals for full details. If further information is desired any officer of CISV will be most happy to assist you in any way possible. If your child is not nominated, he or she will be missing a golden opportunity. We hope that your child will be given a chance to compete for this honor. The child nominated from your school should be a leader as well as healthy, intelligent and socially adjusted. We feel sure that your school will have no difficulty in selecting one boy and one girl with these qualifications.

Sister Agnes Marie, Provincial Supervisor of Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters, and Sister Dolores Marie, Community School Supervisor, of Techy, Illinois, will visit St. Rose De Lima Convent over the weekend.

Sister Margo, Sister of St. Joseph, Houma, La., visited for several days this week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jacob.

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Mrs. William Breland, contestants for the title of Junior Miss rehearse for the pageant. The program is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Jaycees and will be held this Saturday at St. Joseph Academy Gymnasium.

Success of Library Benefit Party Told

Several new books will be added to the Mississippi Shelf of the City-County Public Library through proceeds received on Thursday when Mrs. Norma C. Pilet was hostess at a Library Benefit Party given in her home on Highland Drive.

Program for the afternoon enjoyed by approximately 50 guests, featured arts and crafts of local artists, a display of刺绣 done in Holland and a review of Norah Lofts best selling novel, The Concubine, given by Mrs. Pilet.

Opening the program was Miss Mary Isom, who exhibited a portrait of the library's founder, Miss Louise Crawford, as done by a student. Miss Isom also exhibited one of her drawings done by a special technique she developed while working as a medical art illustrator at John Hopkins, Richmond Barton's Sculptured head of Mrs. Donald H. Landry nee Thelma M. Thomas which was presented to the library as a permanent fixture in 1964 was exhibited and Mrs. Landry interpreted the richer meaning of Barthe's gift. Barthe, a native of Bay St. Louis, now an internationally recognized artist, attributes much of his success to the encouragement and help received from Miss Crawford.

Needlecraft, exhibited by Mrs. Jan Bremeyer, is the work of relatives living in Holland and included the Coat of Arms of Holland's crowned prince, a bell pull in mushroom motif, a petit-point typical village scene wall hanging, and a child's numeral and alphabet sampler. Mrs. Bremeyer explained the stitching process and showed art cloth and patterns used in this art.

The oil painting of a plantation home done by James Pritchett was exhibited by the artist's mother, Mrs. John Pritchett. Mrs. Norvin Oliver of pass Christian exhibited a sand-painting art, told of her method of collecting the many colored sands used in her clear glass bottle displays and demonstrated the method by which these objects are made. Most of her sands were collected in Alberta, Alabama, Mrs. Oliver said.

A religious painting done by artist John Isom was exhibited by his wife, who at the same time modeled a red crocheted dress she had personally designed and made.

Mrs. C. R. Beyer exhibited a collection of small leaded glass perfume bottles. Mrs. Dan Russell exhibited de coupe arts and explained the elaborate process required to complete a finished object. Mrs. Russell explained the fine points of judging de coupe art and brought along poor specimen for comparison.

A revived art of the Arkansas Ozark cabin crafts was explained by Mrs. Robert Langford of Gulfport who exhibited an apple-doll dredged in the costume of Arkansas Mountain folk and fashioned from an apple by a tedious and almost forgotten method.

Throughout the home were hanging works of local artists including Nadine Stamm and Barbara Gray, the works of the late Phoebe Jones, of Long Beach, who lost her life during Hurricane Camille, and an oil painting by Edna O'Neill of Pass Christian.

Following the program guests gathered in the dining room where Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Sr., served sangria and Mrs. Leo Seal served sherry. The tea table was covered with an eruc hand-made lace cloth centered with a cut glass bowl arranged with ruby red chrysanthemums and balanced with a cut glass punch bowl at one end and a cut glass wine decanter at the other. Red grapes, ham, cake, and cranberry were filled with cranberry red tapers. The Austrian wine decanter was decorated with bunches of today grapes and cranberry glass stemmed ware was used in this service. Cranberry creme tea wafers completed the serve.

Mrs. Prindiville said over $50 in donations was received and booth for the Mississippi Shelf would include The Mississippi, a Hedding Carter pictorial, and impressionistic volume that talk about the treas-

MISS DEBORAH WEIDMAN

December Wedding Planned

Mrs. Dorothy Bourgeois Weidman of Waveland, Miss., and Mr. Stanley Edward Weidman of Miami Beach, Florida, announced the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Deborah Ann to Jerry David Heitzmann, son of Mrs. Carl Heitzmann of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. Heitzmann. The wedding will be solemnized December 19 at two o'clock in the afternoon at St. Clare's Church in Waveland. A reception will follow at St. Clare's Parish Hall.

Miss Weidman, whose mother is the former Dorothy Bourgeois, is a graduate of Bay Senior High School. She is presently a nursing student at Pearl River Junior College and will graduate in May. The prospective bride's grandparents are Mrs. Tony Bourgeois of Waveland and the late Mr. Fred Woodward and Mrs. Binghamton, New York and the late Mr. Stanley Weidman.

Mr. Heitzmann, whose mother is the former Velma Zengarling, is a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School. He is presently attending Pearl River Junior College and will graduate in January. The prospective groom's grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zen-ties of the Mississippi River and the part it has played in the life of America's midcontinent. The book is said to combine history, wild life and ecology. It portrays the many facets of the river's long story of human activity (hunting, fishing, steamboats, barges, show-boats, the rise of cities along its banks, etc.) Mrs. Prindiville said the book published by Rand McNally and selling at $14.95 would be a welcomed addition to the library. Other Mississippi material selections are to be announced later.

St. Clare's Sodality Meets

Sodality of St. Clare's Parish, Waveland, met last Tuesday afternoon in the cafeteria with Mrs. Marcus Elchhorn, prefect, presiding.

Following the opening prayer Mrs. Joseph Damens, corresponding secretary, presented minutes of the September meeting in the absence of Mrs. A. N. Gras, Mrs. Adrian Chagard gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Damens and Mrs. Edward N. Canady, publicity chairman, reported. Mrs. William Faulkner, savings chairman, announced the next saving date is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., today in her home, 21 Waveland Avenue. All ladies of the Parish are invited to join the group.

Plans for the annual Christmas party were discussed and the date will be announced later.

Officers re-elected for the coming year include Mrs. Elchhorn, vice prefect; Mrs. Daniel LeRoy, recording secretary; Mrs. Chagard, treasurer; Mrs. Damens, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edward N. Canady was appointed publicity chairman. Mrs. Hollis Davis, new member, was welcomed by the group. Activities for the month of November will include Social, Wednesday, November 11, 1:30 p.m. in St. Clare's cafeteria; monthly meeting, 2 p.m., Tuesday, November 24 in the cafeteria.

Students To Attend Annual Band Clinic

Brother Lee Barker, S.C., principal of St. Stanislaus High School, announced that Victor Frankiewicz and David Johns have been selected to represent St. Stanislaus at the annual All State Band Clinic to be held in Biloxi, Mississippi, on December 10, 1970. The purpose of this clinic, which will be attended by approximately four hundred students from the state of Mississippi, is to gather the best band students from the state with the idea of reading and playing the best of current band material.

Victor, a junior at St. Stanislaus, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Frankiewicz, 402 Felicity St., Bay St. Louis Mississippi. David, a sophomore, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Watson A. Johns, 310 Carroll Ave., Bay St. Louis, Miss.

The band director at St. Stanislaus High School is Mr. Davis Williams, and the band moderator is Brother Anton Sokira, S.C.

Garling and Mrs. George Heitzmann of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. Heitzmann.

SCS Personnel*Presented Awards

In appropriate ceremonies at the SCS Office in Poplarville on October 27, 1970, Director W. M. Watkins presented awards and certificates of merit to SCS employees Richard H. Bloodworth, County Executive Director; Helen R. Schrock, Lead Program Assistant; Madelyn Williams, Program Assistant C.P. Program; and William Burge, Program Assistant Feed and Grain Program. On behalf of the State and County Committees, Mr. Watkins expressed his appreciation and commended temporarily SCS employees - Helen S. Brelard, Margaret C. Cowart, Janet R. Eggett, Maxine N. Ellison and Anna Mae Smith - for their dedication and efficient service in administering the emergency programs. These employees have contributed greatly to the success of this operation.

In making the presentation, Mr. Watkins noted that the awards were "for performance substantially exceeding the requirements of positions during the period September 1, 1969, through August 31, 1970. During the past year the County office has done an outstanding job in administering the emergency C.P. and O.E.P. Programs caused by Hurricane Camille." Approximately 10,000 requests for assistance have been processed through the Pearl River - Hancock ASC's office. Training a supervision of temporary employees, needed due to extra work load, has been excellent.

Richard H. Bloodworth is a native of Tallahatchie County, Mississippi. He is 28 years of age and is a graduate of the Tallahatchie High School, Charleston, Mississippi, North East Mississippi Junior College, Senatobia, Mississippi, and earned his B. S. ## McCaleb-Duer Exchange Vows

Miss Patricia Adelaide McCaleb, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Alfred Francis McCaleb of Bay St. Louis, became the bride of Robert Scott Duer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duer of Union City, Tenn. A double ring ceremony at 8 p.m., Saturday at Main Street United Methodist Church with Rev. Charles R. Johnson, pastor of First Episcopal Church, officiating.

Mrs. Phillip Allison, organist played the wedding marches and a selection of appropriate selections.

Baskets of white gladioli, carnations and greenery flanked the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Steven C. Wyatt. She wore a white imported lace gown fashioned on Empire lines with a high neckline, long sleeves and a front panel of delustered satin. The back waistline was trimmed with a satin bow and streamers extending to the hem line. Her long length veil of illusion was attached to a small flowered wreath and she carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white daisies.

Miss Jo Sangster of Wilmette, Illinois, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Sally Duer, Union City, Tenn.; Mary Shatuck, Bay St. Louis; Robbie Rutledge, Waveland, Miss.; Vicki Scharf, Atlanta, Ga., and Belle McCaleb, Bay St. Louis.

They wore lavender bonded lace Empire styled dresses featuring Sabrina necklines and long sleeves. The waistlines were accented with matching satin ribbons and bows in the front. They wore headpieces fashioned of matching ribbon bows and streamers with circular ruffles and carried a single or two gladiolas.

Dave McAdoo, Union City, was best man. J. Peyton Parker, Baton Rouge, La., Allen Walker, New Orleans; Jimmy Robinson, Daytona Beach, Florida and John Lewis Buffkin Jr., Bay St. Louis served as groomsmen.

Maggie leaves and arrangements of white chrysanthemums decorated the McCaleb home for the reception following the ceremony.

Mrs. McCaleb received their guests wearing a cerise silk suit with matching headpiece and black accessories.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a black and white herringbone suit with brown accessories.

The bride, an alumna of New Trier High School, East Wilmette, Ill., attended the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Matthew C. Perry High School, Iwakuni, Japan, is serving with the United States Marine Corps in Yuma, Arizona.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Cecile Parker, Mrs. H. S. Parker, Mrs. Aaron Parker, Mrs. R. M. Troy, all of Monroe La., and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Duer, Union City, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. J. Peyton Parker, Baton Rouge, La., and Mrs. Allen Walker, New Orleans.

Mr. A. F. McCaleb III, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Samuels, New Orleans, and Mrs. Mary Smith and daughter Susan, Monroe, La.

Guests were invited over to the guest of honor.

They wore lavender bonded lace Empire styled dresses featuring Sabrina necklines and long sleeves. The waistlines were accented with matching satin ribbons and bows in the front. They wore headpieces

Candy Stripers Honored At Tea

On November 7, the Women's Auxiliary of Hancock Hospital presented an awards tea for the Candy Stripers and their mothers.

The program was opened by a prayer by Cindy Wolfe. Terri Monti, (Pros) gave a welcome to the mothers and gave an explanation of the candy stripers program. Types of works were explained by various candy stripers.

Guest speakers were Mrs. S. Hunter, R.N. and Miss L. Rutherford, registered Technician.

Mrs. A. S. Kloinger, President of Hancock General Hospital Women's Auxiliary presented the Candy Stripers with their 50 hour certificates, while Mrs. Leo Seal and Mrs. C.C. McDonald, Sr. presented the girls with the 100 hour pins, 200 hour caps and 400 hour guards.

After the program the girls and their mothers enjoyed a social hour in the Hospital's Conference Room.

The following awards were presented:

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

The past weekend was another good one, no rain, not too cold, just right for fishing and hunting. The duck season opened in Louisiana on Nov. 10 and the second segment of the dove season opened in Miss. on the same date, Nov. 10.

There was plenty to do for both hunters and fishermen. On the fishing side, the water around Pearl River and tributaries continues to be bad, but up Jourdan River the water was excellent for both salt and fresh water fishing. Speckled brook trout caught by trolling and with live bait, while bass are still hitting surface baits.

Nolan Lodear and Nathan Carrigan caught some speckles Saturday.

Gene Louder has been getting them by trolling after working hours.

Ron Tolimard a pass master at trolling has been getting them regularly.

Aldan Maufra and Yours Truly caught a few Wednesday, including a bass and a pike.

A lot of speckles are being caught on the Mud Flat and off the Hi-way Bridge and along the R.R. Bridge. The specks should go up the river again soon, now that the water is clear.

Grover Miller one of our golfing buddies at Baton Rouge is still knocking the old pill around. See you on the next trip up Grover.

Luke Elliott and David Sibley went after ducks the past weekend. Haven't heard how they made out.

Alvin Favre goes both fishing and hunting. You can't get plenty for the table.

Al Kingston with Norvin Fayard caught a mess of white Perch (Sac-a-lac). Al said they were good size.

You used an 18-foot boat with motor, Walter Bieller has one.

Jim Hanson is a real fisherman. He said he catches anything that bites, even gnats.

We were told snakes have hit all hibernated. A couple rotten snakes were killed down by Malatou Bayou recently. Watch for them.

Walter O. Crawley does more hunting than fishing. You should be in your glory now. Walker, there is plenty things in this neck of the woods.

The fisherman cursteth in the middle of the night. He disturbeth the whole household and great are the preparation thereof. When the day is far spent he returneth and the truth is not in him. -Anonymous.

Tom Jones loves to hunt and fish. Who doesn't.

John Sellers, does a lot of fishing, but can't catch anything said Ernest Rials, who's right.

Mrs. Gladys Henneasay caught a 7 pound drum on her first time fishing at Waveland. You can wager she'll be out again.

The Bear football team of Our Lady of the Gulf School are going big guns. Be a bear buster.

Dingo hunting classic in La. on Dec. 12 and runs through Feb. 14. The daily bag limit is 8 birds. 10 in possession. Information for these hunting in Louisiana, anywhere. Dingo are a wonderful eating bird and one of the hardest to hit. The season for Mississippi is Dec. 12 - Feb. 14. Bag limit 10 possession 16; open statewide. Snipe are found mostly in low marshy places or on banks of bayous.

The season for Woodcock in Miss. is the same as above Dec. 12 - Feb. 14. Bag limit 8, pos. 16; open statewide. Woodcock are larger than snipe. Delicious eating. They are found also in marshy places.

Jack Brinkley, Arnett Rogers and two sons, Nicky and Romeo made a duck hunt over the weekend, eat in the marsh. No report on what they killed.

John Corbin and two nephews, Donald and Harry Corbin fished in a farm pond for bass and perch, Sunday.

What a hoot, A. G. Rice caught a 11 1/2 lb. trout Lake Copiah recently. It was caught on a purple worm. Would like to see one like it, myself.

TODAY'S

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK
HOLDEN BARRE doesn't claim to be much of a fisherman but enjoys it. He is busy taking his grandchildren fishing and crabbing.

Haven't heard of any doves being killed since the season opened last Saturday more on this labor.

Sam Favre had some friends on his boat over the weekend. They did mostly fishing out in the marshes.

Sam Meyers is still catching fish. Goes quite often. Sam uses the old perch pole and comes home with his share of them.

Ray Garner is justly proud of his new aluminum boat. Ray is a good and ardent fisherman. Doesn't care how big they are.

Should hear something about Jimmy Laroux when the duck season opens on waterfowl next week. Jim knows how to get them. An old timer at that kind of hunting.

Dick Mastayer is another one gone to duck hunting. Like most hunters he is in his glory now with most all seasons open. Dick loves his quail hunting best, we think.

There is a split season on geese, Nov. 14 - 28th, and Dec. 19 - Jan. 17. That does make it nice.

For a complete schedule on all hunting get a copy of the Miss. Game and Fish Commission's publication Sept. and October, 1970. This book is mailed free to residents of Miss. requesting it. Mail requests to Miss. Game and Fish Com., 239 North Lamar, Jackson, Miss., 39201.

While hunting or fishing be a good sport. Be careful when making fires. Be sure all matches are out before throwing them in the woods and help keep our streams free from pollution.

Treec Bark Makes Excellent Mulch

Treec bark has been recommended by the Southern Forest Institute as an excellent mulching material for shrubs and other small plants. Bark may be bought under various commercial names, however, in this area much bark and mulching material is available as an after math of the hurricanes. Pine needles, too, are beginning to fall in sufficient quantities to rate for mulching.

"America's forest industries are becoming more efficient in utilizing all the wood in a log," said a spokesman for the Forest Institute and added "as recently as 20 years ago only 29 per cent of a log was used but today as much as 98 per cent of the log goes into products for man's use. Treec bark for mulching is in demand."

FARNING A POSITION on the Pearl River Junior College Wildcat basketball squad from Bay St. Louis is Donnie Caldwell.

Caldwell, a six-footer, was an All-Gulf Coast Conference selection for the Bay High Tigers this past season. He is a good outside shooter and will probably see action for the Wildcats at the guard position.
